The PANTHER Dedicated to Ruth Raupe

The 1985-86 yearbook staff dedicates this year's book to our devoted friend and teacher, Mrs. Ruth Raupe.

Mrs. Raupe has taught English at Mulhall-Orlando for four years. During these last years, she has put up with speech club, seniors, NHS, and many, many plays. Through all of this, she has managed to hold on to her sanity, which is a major accomplishment in itself.

The yearbook staff would like to wish Mrs. Raupe many more happy years to come.

A Spring To Recall

Spring is always a busy time of the school year. Many projects are ending while others are just beginning. The first ever National Honor Society was formed last Spring. Under the sponsorship of Mrs. Dunn and Mrs. Raupe, the J.H.S. and the N.H.S. initiated the new members, elected officers, and spearheaded a bike-athon for St. Jude's Research Hospital.

The 1985-86 N.H.S. members are Mike Fillmore (vice president), Kelli Shafer (president), Wendi Harris (secretary), Tonya Rothermel (reporter), Teresa Koch, and Greg Duncan (treasurer).

Seniors of 1985 who were initiated this spring were Pat Henke, Shelly Jones, Shelly Shrum, and Lavonna Wade.

The 1985-86 J.H.S. members are April Peveto, Connie Wade, Mark Hood, Rodney Silvers, Trey Fillmore, Julie Dudek, Brian Duncan, Denise Rothermel, Genelle Koch, Roche Henke, Kim Downs, Becky Knopf, Angela Koch, Kyla Huie, and (up front) Janet Weinkauff.

In May, when seniors graduate, it always seems to be the final act of the school year. When the Seniors of '85 graduated they not only closed a chapter of their lives but also opened the door to the underclassmen beneath them, waiting for their chance to be "TOP DOG."

Many changes take place around the school in those last slow months. Roy McNeill, Joey Fishburn, Larry Jack, and David Endevoets sit in the teacher's workroom that the boys remodeled. Past School Superintendant Roy Snow drives the bulldozer on the soon-to-be parking lot for students and faculty. It was later graveled and is now located on the north side of the school.

Suspension

Grade school students have many activities to keep them on the go and in suspense. RIGHT: Hayley Schmiedbauer receives a sleek, compact trophy from the Lions Club at sixth grade graduation for her achievements throughout the year. BELOW: Geoffrey Koch, sixth grade valedictorian, on his way to becoming another Lee Iacocca. CENTER: Kindergarten girls Summer Bradshaw, Jackie Srader, Melissa Graham, Chapelle Henderson, and Amber Miller assemble blocks during free time. BOTTOM: Carrie Hopfer and Matthew Pfeiffer know the route to take to improve reading skills.

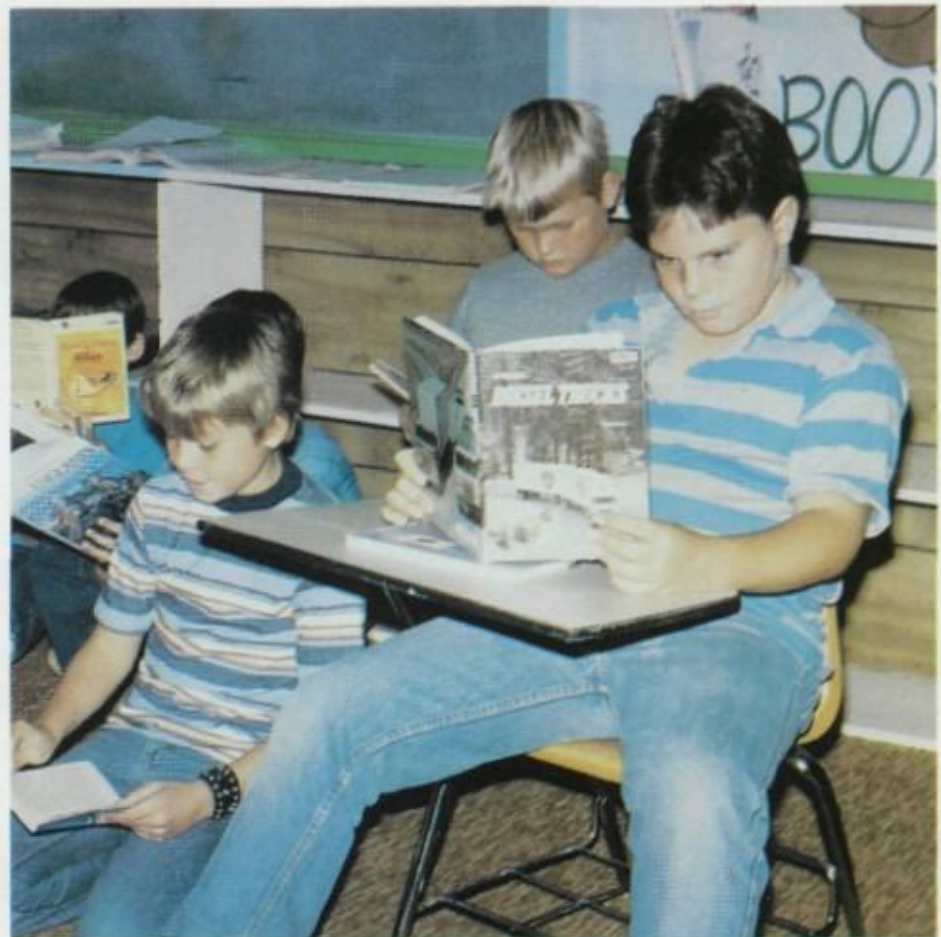

LEFT: Plenty of leg room. (Audrey Larman and Sarah Pfeiffer) BELOW: The grade school building features the latest in window coverings, thanks to Mr. Toepfer and Richard Andrews, who painted the shades this last summer.

Bradley Harman testing the new educational games for maneuverability.

Tim Roberts, Tim Taylor and Michael Payne in hot pursuit of good books to read.

Superior Performances

"Pig Out on Books" was the theme of a month-long contest held at the elementary school . . . and that's exactly what the students did!

A goal was set for each classroom to see how many books they could read, and there were also personal goals which were rewarded with small prizes such as bookmarkers, pencils, and book bags.

On March 24 a special parade was held to celebrate the end of this educational contest. Students dressed as their favorite characters or little piglets and were judged by classes. Mrs. Daniels' fifth graders won first for best costumes and were, of course, in "hog heaven!"

BELOW: The truest test of performance was in the costumes of Louis Karns and Donald Knott.

TOP RIGHT: Fourth graders chose to be robots for parade day. Control panel driven are Amy Van Vranken, Jeri Bussard, Brandy Thomason, Michelle Knight, and Dorothy Bode.

ABOVE: Sarah Watters' 4-wheel drive is able to haul up to three tons of books.

CENTER: Dwayne Golay and Wayne Campbell shift to neutral while Matthew Pfeiffer checks his chassis. CENTER: Mrs. Spaulding's first graders Mandy Knight, Shanna Bussard, Anya McAnally, Joline Oldenburg, Kaleb Hermann, Rhonda Merrill, Travis Perrin, J. J. Jeet, Marriya Harrell, and Brian Prince display their totally new, highly advanced design as they sing their "Pig Out on Books" song. BOTTOM: Third graders put up their tops and ease on down the road. These "human books" are Emily Driskel, Jamie Gallaway, Chasity Shafer, and Jeff Oldenburg. BOTTOM CENTER: Luke Martin and student teacher Mr. Lannan take a quick spin around town.

Optional Features

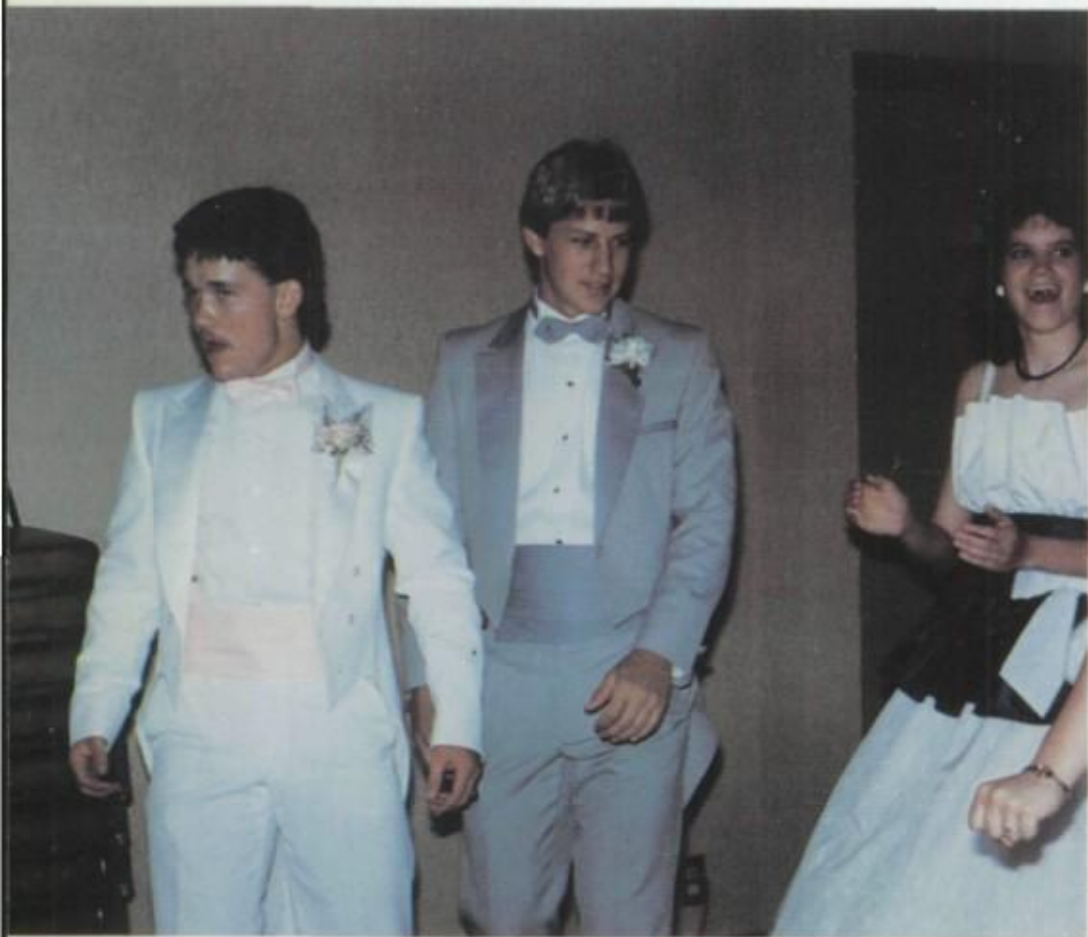

Well, Daniel, aren't you going to ask me to dance? (Sally Estus and Daniel Knott)

The junior-senior prom, Special Olympics, graduation, the yearbook, and a new baby for Mrs. Dunn were special features that made our '84-85 school year a classic.

"What now, Mom?" (April Peveto and Greg Duncan)

The banquet before the prom was full of excitement.

Looking really sharp! (Mark Richards, Mike Fillmore and Kelli Shafer)

FINDERS CREEPERS

After doing a mystery-drama the year before, (and having such success with it) the seniors decided to do another one. This year's play, entitled "FINDERS CREEPERS" centered around a mortuary.

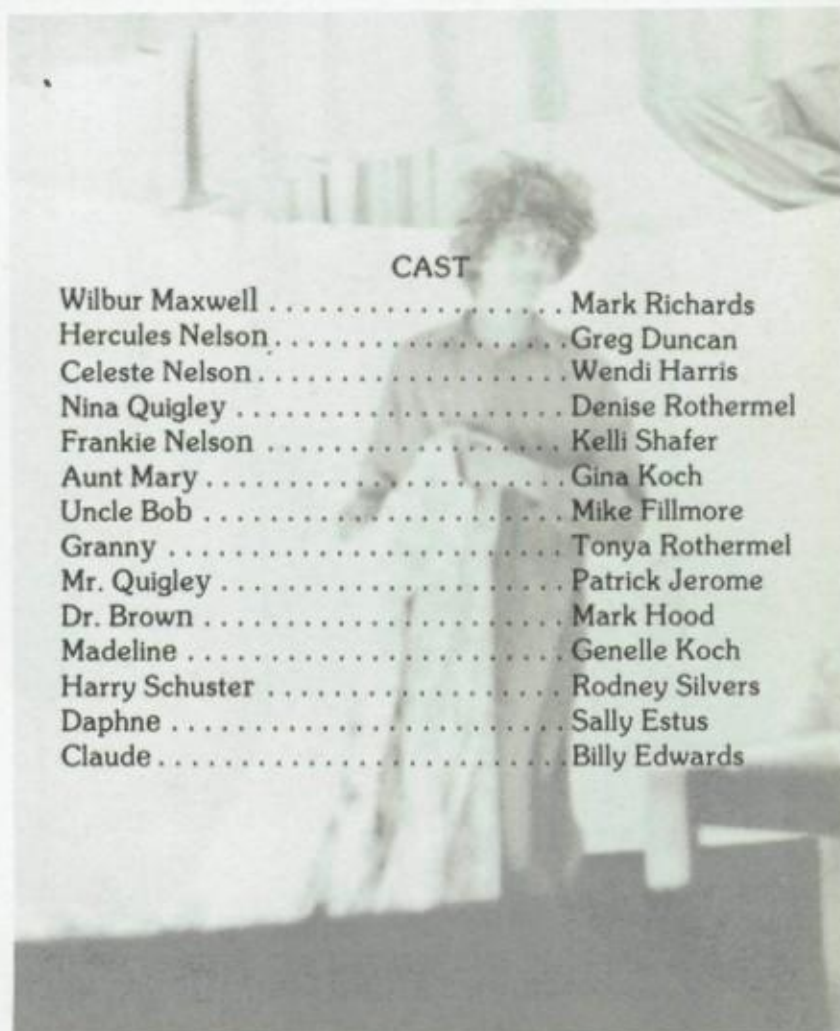

Mrs. Raupe (the play's director) said, "It was the first play I ever directed that was performed without having had a practice with all cast members there."

Even without the practice, the play was a hit with everyone.

Experience

NOTHING

RIGHT: Enough cargo to fill the back of a station wagon. (Kelli Downs opens the packages of merchandise that the juniors sold during one of their fundraisers.)

FAR RIGHT: It had no shock absorbers and it wasn't all-weather, but Valerie and Sharon's "gingerbread" house went an extra mile to cheer Chress at Christmastime.

This year when the juniors enrolled for classes, we all hoped we would pass, or one of the hard classes would really be an easy one, or . . . maybe . . . even be out for the whole school year with a bad case of the flu.

The fall rolled around and colds became a very common occurrence. When Chress Watters did not attend for one week, everybody thought she has the famed "flu bug." All of a sudden (October 24, 1985) Chress was rushed to Children's Memorial Hospital in Oklahoma City. Then everyone knew that she didn't have the flu. Many tests were run and the diagnosis was that Chress had leukemia. This stunned the student body, teachers, and community.

The students and teachers were crying, depressed, and most of all praying for Chress's recovery. Several members of our school sent her letters, cards, and banners saying "Get Well Soon." A prayer chain was started that lasted one day. Also the junior class sent Chress a bouquet of flowers.

Chress has undergone some very powerful chemotherapy that has kept her sick most of the time and caused her to lose her hair. When the bone marrow tests show no cancerous cells, she will be released and able to come home.

Chress is a teacher to us all because even though she has leukemia, her spirits are always up and she usually has a smile for everyone. This is what is helping her get through this crisis in her life . . . HER GOOD SPIRITS!

THE ONE TO WATCH

Kindergarten is a special time when children not only learn the basics, such as their numbers and the alphabet, but they also learn to develop friendships that will last a lifetime.

Like building blocks, every step in learning has its place. Even though it may not seem important at the time, you continue to build upon that . . . in hopes that one false move does not destroy everything you have worked so hard for. Whether it be with friends or schoolwork, piece by piece it all falls into place, making kindergarteners the "ONES TO WATCH." Because kindergarten is where it all begins.

Organizations

Mark Richards: School can be pretty dull sometimes; everybody knows that.

Patrick Jerome: Yea! Most of the time you just come to school, do your work, and go home.

Kelli Shafer: Thank goodness we have organizations to bridge the gap between school and boredom.

"Speech contests are lots of fun. I can remember a whole bunch of good memories of things that happened at them. Speech contests have also been an educational experience that I will continue to use the rest of my life."

BAND

In early May when spring was beginning to hit full force, the M-O high school and grade school bands gathered with their parents for the second annual band banquet. The theme "Capers in the Wind" was carried out with streamers, balloons, and hand-drawn pictures. After the potluck supper the band officers gave out gag awards for numerous things and nobody was left out. Then came the moment everybody was waiting for, the crowning of the 1985-86 Band Queen and King. But first Matthew Martin and Jonene Bode were crowned the 85-86 Grade School Prince and Princess by outgoing H.S. Band Queen Tonya Rothermel. Likewise, Stacey Sylvester, and Janet Weinkauff were crowned the 85-86 H.S. Jazz Band Sweetheart and Concert Band Sweetheart respectively.

Then the moment everyone was waiting for. Shawn McNally was announced as King and April Peveto, the 1985-86 High School Band Queen.

STUDENT COUNCIL

The Bottom Line

The Student Council, under the watchful eye of Mr. Harris, began a hard-working year filled with many activities and fund-raisers.

First on their agenda was to change the present semester-test rule for the high school. The old rule stated that if you were exempt in all but one class, you still had to take all the tests, but they changed it to just taking the test in the one you weren't exempt in. And it has gone over well with students and faculty.

The Student Council then put in a coke machine for the students to use during noon hour, and for a while quarters were pretty scarce around M-O High.

They even had a hand in homecoming this year. They organized the first-ever bonfire and snake dance. Even though it was a freezing night, the crowd was large and spirited and when asked gave the Student Council and "E" for effort.

In hopes of raising enough money for a dance during the spring semester, the Student Council sold "KATT Rocks Mulhall-Orlando" t-shirts and sweatshirts and also sold helium-filled colored balloons for Valentine's Day.

So the bottom line is: If you have an idea or complaint, don't just sit and moan, give it to a Student Council member. They proved this year that they get things done.

Sports

Mark Richards

Patrick Jerome: To be a success at any sport you have to excel to your maximum ability.

Kelli Downs

Wendi Harris: But there is always the chance that after you have excelled to get hurt or want to sluff.

Gina Koch

Nadine Zimmer: But to get the most out of your sport, you have to give 100% at all times.

Kelli Shafer: That is probably why people play sports. They know that after the game, win or lose, they have done their best.

I like to play sports because I like competing against other people.

— Greg Koch

Valerie Hafner and Kelli Shafer talk to Coach Thrash's wife Traci at the Athletic Booster's "Meet the Players." It's held yearly in the cafeteria after the first home game and gives players of both teams a chance to become friends instead of merely competitors.

The basketball teams got new suits this year, and the girls proudly wear theirs in all these pictures.

Dare To Dream

Following a week of homecoming activities, the week came to a beautiful close on November 22, 1985 as the Mulhall-Orlando basketball queen was crowned. The queen for the 1985-86 school year was Kelli Shafer. The king was Mike Fillmore. The theme for this year was "Dare to Dream" and was carried out with stars and clouds in the colors of blue, white, and purple. Each of the four attendants followed the colors and dressed in shades of either blue or purple and were given a long-stem red rose. They were escorted to their boxes with the "Love Theme from St. Elmo's Fire."

The last page of the yearbook always seems to symbolize the last of the school year; and as you close the yearbook, you close on the memories of another year. Baseball games, student council meetings, initiations, basketball games, homecoming, fund-raisers, softball games, speech contests, prom, and graduation are all rolled into the pages of one yearbook. The graduating class of 1986 will nevermore walk these halls as students. The memories they have will never fade; but as the last few weeks fly by, they know their days are numbered. Next year another class will take their place, but that doesn't make it any easier to say good-bye — good-bye to the basic routine of high school life, their friends, and all the fun and not-so-fun things they did.

Well, in many ways this year is no exception. As we say good-bye to everyone and everything and as the memories start to flood in, we will all remember that when we enrolled on the first day it was the beginning of the end. No more book reports, or term papers, or running to catch the bus. It's all gone. Never to be the same again.

This year has been different. For the first time since we have been playing sports, we had separate coaches; we organized at NHS, and of course just being seniors was unique to us. But the most unexpected experience this year was the loss of an excellent friend on January 9. We were saddened and grieved by the loss. I myself miss her more each day, more than I realize, and I'm sure others feel the same way about Chress.

So now we have said our good-byes, some earlier than others, and now we have to look ahead because that is where life leads. As you close this yearbook, don't ever look back with regret, just smile and move on.
